the 1990s, the number of people in the UK who are employed in the public sector has increased by 1.5 million, from 2.5 million in 1980 to 4 million in 1995. The public sector has also become an important employer of women, with 4.5 million women employed in the public sector in 1995, compared with 3.5 million in 1980.

There is a growing emphasis on the importance of the public sector in providing services to the community, and in particular in providing services to the elderly. The public sector has been the main provider of social care services in the UK, and its role is expected to increase in the future.

BEING SPIRITED

KOUGARS

Spirit. There wouldn't be a school caught without any. What would school be like with no student involvement, without the occasional dressup days, without the roof raising pep sessions, without the fans roaring out from the stands, "We are KV," or "This is Kougars Kountry"? A few students said what they thought about the great spirit at KV.

"I think it's important to have at least a little school spirit. To have fun at school you have to like it." Courtney Cardwell.

"I think school spirit is awesome. When you got, it people know. Life is good when you have spirit, not only for school, but for life." Nicole Callas otally involved in the Homecoming football game, Nick Koedyker and Rich Olson await the exciting moment of a touchdown.

Proud to be protector of toys Andy Bulla dresses like "Toy story 2" Sheriff Woody.

Always prepared Travis Thomas keeps the players in the game by filling the water bottles.

Loud and proud varsity cheerleaders Courtney Roorda, Amber Nannenga, Trisha Evans, Breanna Halaburt, Mindy Jonkman, and Nicki Torbitt cheer their lungs out.

Making the crowd go wild, Jacki Brinker dances to the Junior lipsync, to the wonderful song "Bye Bye Bye" created by N'sync. "I felt like a real N'sync member," Jacki said.

Flying high, Carrie Holobowski, reveals her super girl talents.

At the pep session, the scary masked man Mr. Apple did a little skit for the spirit stick.

At lunch Michael Frederick tries to teach the competitors how to make balloon animals. This was one of many fourth hour activities put on by Student Council throughout the year.

Making weird creatures, Monica Arambula, and Ashley Burger, tried to win the fourth hour activity. "I really like our 4th hour activities. I don't really participate in the activities, (I only like to watch) but I couldn't pass this one up." Monica Arambula

Admiring the new hat, Kyleen Eden complements on how nice Tiffany Heinrich balloon creations are. "It was a fun and unique experience. Not only did I learn how to make things, I got to act demented like myself," said Tiffany.

BEING FRIENDS

KOUGARS

Friendship-n. 1 the condition of being friends. 2 a liking between friends. 3 friendly feeling or behavior, friendliness.

High school wouldn't have been the same if there was no friendship. "Friends are the reason I survive school-they give me a reason to come," said senior Matt Chalik.

One of the most important qualities in friendship was trust and the understanding that everyone was on the same level. Friends were there to relieve stress and lend a helping hand. Most people hung around peers with the same interests as them. Junior Virginia Clifton stated about her friend April Lewandowski, "We both connected by being Hanson fans. It's important to have the same interests, so we don't fight." April then replied, "Yeah, dorks fly together." Virginia came back with, "No, you fly by yourself."

Either flying together or alone, friendship carried students through school.

"School is an awesome opportunity to make lasting best friends like Sarah Sandonato!" Valerie Graper said.

Beingafan, Sara Hoffman and Heather Leese show their school spirit as well as their friendship.

njoying a laugh foreign exchange student, Sabrina Marbasher and senior friend Amanda Battista, learn more about each other at lunch.

What do some friends do on a Friday night? Kougat fans Naura Keiser, Erin Green, Emily Bristol, and Erin Greenlee enjoyed spending time laughing and cheering at the football games.

After a quick lunch some friends like Ernest Crim, James Craighead, Thomas Underwood, and Jason Lucas liked to hang out in the hall and just talk about anything that may have popped in their minds.

Enjoying the football game, Chad Nannenga supports the team by cheering.

Enjoying the school day, Dennis Justice and Jill Jamieson hang out together.

Hanging out at the side lines, Jeff Garvey and Alex Graper relate quickly to the excitement on the field. "Chad is my favorite comrad. No matter how tall he is and how short I am, we always fit together like peas and carrots on a dinner plate at supper time," Garvey said about Chad Nannenga.

Stitting under the stairs, Brooke Inman, Brooke Boege, and Matt Cleghorn, await the bell that will get them to their next class. "The best part of the day is hanging out with my friends in the morning. I love them," said Brooke Inman.

After a great meal, Sophomores Josh Pugett, Sarah Thorton, and Brooke Hicks catch a quick break in the hallway and talk about the latest news.

BEING ENLIGHTENED KOUGARS

Among the club activities, dances, and sporting events, education has still been an important focus.

Freshman Amanda Schaper reflected on her reason for staying educationally motivated. "My parents are very happy," she boasted. "I just took a big boost into the second semester. I'm actually on the Honor Roll."

In addition, education to many students was considered an arduous trip full of self-improvement. "School is a magical journey," said Senior Chad Nannenga. "We need to make the best of it so we don't rot in a teenage wasteland."

As Mr. Adams sat in his chilly English room this winter, he offered an amusing perspective on the uses for keeping the mind at work. "Rub some brain cells together," he said mischievously, "and hope the friction generates some heat."

Signing for his basketball scholarship, Adam Schaper reads his contract with Iowa State.

Taking a break in choir, Scott Cochran reads about the latest news.

Partnering up, Mark Wright and Thomas Underwood push their desks together and make it easier to help each other out on their new assignment.

Hunting Adam Logan down, Mrs. Price finds him in the German room and informs him on his current situation with the Academic Decathlon. Adam went on to win a varsity level gold medal at state.

Keeping up with the sports, Marcus Williams reads the newspaper before class begins.

In World History, a gathering of freshmen work on their group projects.

Starting her day with a little computer work Nichole Haberlin, tries to get her yearbook staff organized and ready for the up coming deadline.

Sitting "high and mighty" at a teachers desk, Zack Pajkos tests his leadership skills and finds out if he could fit the roll of a teacher.

Relaxing her brain, Virginia Clifton looks up and smiles to show she is still feeling good and knows she will get the work done in class so she can have a homework free night.

Powder puff: n. A soft pad for applying powder to the skin.

"I think that all of the girls were very determined to win this year. They put a lot of hard work and time into practicing."

Senior Liz Dugger

"At the end of the game, it was great because we [seniors & juniors] all became united despite the rivalry we had during the game."

Junior Rose Gentz

"Powder Puff was one of the most memorable moments in all of my high school years."

Senior Amanda Hoffman

"Powder puff was so much fun! We all became closer during that week. Even though we lost, we still had a blast."

Junior Kim Hudspeth

Battle to the finish

Practices at five in the morning, strenuous calisthenics, class rivalry, and fierce competition were just some of the aspects that the 2000 Powder Puff girls faced. On September 28 the suspense and tension built up on the sidelines as game time approached.

"I think the girls had equal qualities, but the seniors had more experience and weren't afraid to walk on to the field under the victory lights," said Senior Nichole Haberlin.

It was a tight match to the finish with the score resulting in eight for the seniors and zero for the juniors. Despite the fact that it was a close match up, the juniors and seniors were once again friends after the game.

"The final outcome didn't really matter because the game was all about having fun and pushing around the seniors," said Junior

Jacki Brinker.

The game was not only about a girls' flag football game, but showing school spirit on the day before Homecoming.

Displaying his junior class pride, Matt Myers cheers on the girls as Megan Parker's superfan.

We Will Rock You

Rockin' themes hit the halls for Homecoming September 25- 29. From the falling rocks and stars in the award winning Senior hall to the "Meet the Flintstones" theme in the Sophomores' second place finish, teens enjoyed a week of festivities.

"I like when the whole student body gets involved, it makes it even more exciting," replied Senior Courtney Roodra. The week was started with the traditional dress up days. They were Safari Day; Tin Foil, Duct Tape, and Masking Tape Day; Pop Sensation Day; Jersey/ Uniform Day; and finally Red and White/ Fake an Injury Day.

The pep session started off with the cheerleaders doing a dance for the school. Senior Rudy Mance, the President of Kougars Krazies said, "To truly have school spirit at KV, you must get Krazy with a capital K."

The student body surely got Krazy. Lipsyncs started with the freshmen as Christina Aguilera. Sophomores did Britney Spears and Eminem. Juniors were N'sync and the seniors were Wheatus. Then Mr. Hatch and Mr. Skrobol were Mario and Luigi, stomping on Mr. Apple, who was a "Red Devil." They then rewarded the Juniors their second spirit stick, to put an end to the 31st Homecoming.

Enjoying another dress up day, Nicole Kamminga arrived as a super hero.

Enjoying the banana relay sponsored by Student Council, Junior Sharon Swart hops to the finish line for the Girl's Cross Country Team.

Competing for the spirit stick, Juniors Dan Martinez and Marcus Williams cheer loudly, enabling the class of 2002 to regain what was once theirs.

"You are only in high school once. So take the advantage and enjoy every minute of it! These are the times of our lives."

Junior Nick Allen

"My favorite part of the Homecoming parade was when Matt Cunningham and Bob Stamper jumped on the back of a fire truck."

Senior Josh Oezer

"I got to dress up as a superfan and support my girl, in the upcoming Powderpuff game. We also took back ours spirit stick."

Junior Steve Birchett

"I really liked Homecoming. I enjoyed the pop sensation and superhero dress up days." Freshman April Pirlot

A Night to Remember

Cameras flashed. Lights beamed along the field. On a chilly September 29, halftime was unforgettable as hundreds of students observed the traditional crowning of Homecoming Queen, Monica Arambula.

When asked why she believed she received the most support from her fellow classmates, Monica replied, "I don't judge people at face value, and they appreciate that. Being Homecoming Queen is not about popularity. It's about your attitude toward others."

The other three senior girls were thrilled with the opportunity to be nominated. "It was an honor to be chosen by my classmates," Jessica Scheidt said.

Lindsay Sutton agreed that the ability to be a part of the Court wasn't something she expected. Of her nomination she said, "I was very happy and surprised."

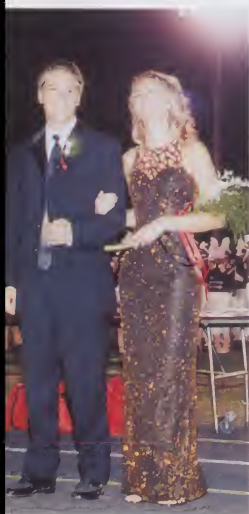

Stefanie DeKock recalled the night: "All the representatives from each class looked so beautiful. It was a wonderful experience I will cherish forever."

Homecoming was a night to remember for

Monica. "To be Homecoming Queen was not necessarily a dream of mine," she finished, "but it's something I'll remember for the rest of my life."

Standing proudly, Stefanie DeKock and Craig Kruchowski grin at the cheering crowd.

"I'm proud of KV's choice for Homecoming Queen."

Principal Mr. Apple

"I was very excited and shocked. That was a night I'll never forget."

Junior Janna Patrick

"To see everyone out there that night was really amazing."

Sophomore Kyleen Eden

"I was glad that I got nominated. It was a really fun experience."

Freshman Anna Gatlin

The word crown, popular because of its golden reference, has been used in store names ranging from bookshells to sporting goods outlets. On November 25, 1975, critically acclaimed classic rock music group Queen's "Bohemian Rhapsody" reached #1 in the "United Kingdom."

SENIORITIS

Everybody goes through it sometime during their Senior year, and the symptoms are all very noticeable. It's called Senioritis. "It's when you don't care about homework, and you come to school with bags under your eyes because you stay up so late every night. It's when you don't care if you offend your teachers or get bad grades," commented Erin Green.

Some Seniors didn't feel the symptoms of Senioritis were such a bad thing. Ryan Gunter said, "Senioritis is when you realize this is the last year of high school, and want to make something of it."

Before Band class, Senior Dan Peo entertains his classmates with a little dance for all to enjoy. Dan often used humor to reduce the stress and/or tension of being a drum major.

Senior song wins "Teenage Dirtbag" by Wheatus for the lipsyncing song. Seniors won second place at the fall pep session. A time has 118 ridges around its edge. Strawberries have more vitamin c in them than oranges.

Accomplishments

Throughout high school, the class of 2001 has accomplished numerous quests. From winning Powder Puff for two straight years to raising money for the World War II Memorial their junior year, seniors engaged in success. Finishing Econ A with Mr. Post, being a student ambassador and making good friends also topped the list. "I felt my greatest accomplishment was finding my best friend," replied Amanda Battista.

Seniors seemed to agree on one thing, that their greatest accomplishment was always leaving room in their schedule to have fun. "I just wanted to enjoy myself. I think it's sad when people are miserable throughout high school," said Shannon Takacs.

During the Friday Pep Rally for Homecoming week, Queen candidate, Monica Arambula, shows just how much school spirit she has. Arambula went on to accept the crown at the football game halftime festivities. Presenting the Powder Puff game ball to the school was Class Officer Jessica Scheidt.

New Journeys

Each day that passed they were one day closer to Graduation. Many Seniors had mixed feelings about this long anticipated day. "I've hated school since I was a little squirt. When I was chasing girls around the playground, and throwing rocks at my friends. I never thought the day for me to put on my robe and get my diploma would ever come. Now, the day for me to put on my robe is approaching very quickly. I often wonder if I really hated school because now I'm afraid to let it go," said Senior Dave Brumley.

On June 3, the graduating class headed off in different directions, and embarked on many new journeys. "I'm going to enter college of art and earn my BFA and then my MFA. I'll be learning how to paint so I can do that the rest of my life. I want to be a painter, and do what I love," replied Brooke Inman.

On Super Hero Day for Homecoming festivities, Seniors Jennifer Henke, Diane Wright, Nicole Kamminga, and Lisa Armstrong don Bat Girl outfits to ward off the evils of a tough football competitor. Super Hero Day, a carryover from last year, was one of the most popular dress updays for Spirit Week.

The first television show to feature a flushing toilet was Leave It to Beaver. After the Mayflower was dismantled, it was rebuilt as a barn. The most collect calls are made on Father's Day.

AP SCHOLARS

The class of 2001 had many outstanding students, one of them was Robert Veden. Veden won the AP Scholar award. When asked how the award was going to effect his future he replied, "It will look good on college applications, and scholarships."

Winning any award would make one feel proud, but this award was extra special to Robert. "It was neat winning the AP Scholar award because the award is rarely awarded till after ones Senior year." said Robert Veden.

Not only making Robert feel special, the award brought a sense of pride to the senior class.

BARELY LEGAL

For many being a Senior meant gaining rights, for some Seniors it meant gaining the right to vote. Senior Emily Bristol felt that voting was a great privilege and honor, "It was interesting to vote in the closest election in history for the first time I've ever voted."

In November George Bush narrowly defeated Al Gore in a repeated hand count of the ballots for the state of Florida.

Former Kougat Brandt Hershmen took the oath of office as the new Senator for Indiana.

Daily Life

The year 2000-01 brought many special events. The one that seemed most important to seniors was Graduation which took place June 3. "I've been excited about Graduation since the first day of school this year," said Erin Greenlee.

Another special event for the Senior class was Homecoming week. All week long the student body participated in many activities, such as dress-up days, and fourth hour lunch activities. On Friday four Senior girls competed for the title of Homecoming queen. Four representatives were Stefanie DeKock, Monica Arambula, Jessica Scheidt, and Liz Sutton. Monica Arambula was crowned queen.

Oops, We Did It

A g a i n

Freshman year, 1999, started the tradition. It was the first time in the history of the Kankakee Valley High School that the freshmen of the school had won the coveted spirit stick at Homecoming. The 2002 class came into the school with the ambition and the drive to show the older grades that they weren't the average "Fresh-meat".

The Juniors won it again, with the same spirit that they had shown before. It now made two, another accomplishment never done by another class.

Preparing for the Powderpuff game, Breanna Halaburt fixes Nichole Shields's hair. The two girls are very excited about the upcoming game.

Looking at some Army information, Brad Bittick talks with the officers about how to join the military.

From pretty rocks to necklaces, good luck charms are essential to most people. Blake Boege said, that he has a rabbit's foot because "it's superstitious good luck."

Amanda Abbott said, "My little sister is my good luck charm because since she was born, I have had nothing but good luck and good dreams." She claims that her sister is real living proof that good luck charms do exist.

The most common good luck charms are usually a ring or a necklace. Thirty percent of everyone asked replied, a necklace of some sort, 50 percent, a ring, and the other 20 percent said miscellaneous things.

Valerie Graper is one of the 30 percent who said hers was a necklace, "Because I got it from Jill Kaluf; it reminds me of her!"

Although some good luck charms are invisible, a person can see, hear, and feel them. Carrie Holobowski's good luck charm is her positive attitude. She claims, "Nothing bad ever happens when I have it with me!"

'Music for the Soul'

Most people listen to music from the moment they wake up to right before they fall asleep in their beds. Experiencing music puts many feelings and emotions into people's lives.

Some types of music include R&B, hip hop, classic rock, hard rock, christian, classical, country, and heavy metal; just to name a few. Many Junior students replied rap, alternative rock, and punk. Many said they are open to all types of music.

Within this wide range of music, certain songs became favorites of the Junior listeners. Megan Czapl said her favorite song is "Anna Begins" by Counting Crows. This alternative rock song appeals to her because this band makes her think of Chris Fischer and John Polomchak, how much they all love Counting Crows and just their friendship.

In the country category, Missy Hall prefers, "Amazed" by Lone Star, "It sticks in your mind after hearing it! It also makes me feel better when I hear it after having a bad day."

Classic rock, was chosen by Daniel Martinez who said his favorite was, "Daniel," by Elton John. "It is a very sad and touching song."

Amanda Abbott said what most Juniors think and feel, "Music is a big part of life; without it, we would be lost."

Class of 2003

Chosen as class officers were Kyleen Eden as president, Joe Monet as vice president, Annie Huhn as secretary, and Brandi Roorda as treasurer.

Sophomore class sponsor Ms. Melodi Belei said, "The officers worked hard to make activities fun and successful." There were 252 students overall of which 115 were female and 137 were males.

Nominated for Homecoming Court was Kyleen Eden and her escort was Dave Polomchak. "I was really shocked. It was really exciting and a very big honor to get chosen as sophomore representative," said Kyleen Eden.

Winning first place for best decorated float, second place for best decorated hallway and last place for dressup days, sophomores ranked in third place for the spirit stick.

Cruisin' Around

As summer drew nearer, sophomores who finished drivers ed couldn't wait to cruise around town with their friends. After completing the required 30 hours of work book and 6 hours of driving with Mr. Prochno, Mr. Maple, Mr. Roberts, or Mr. Greenlee, students were eager to get their license and gain some experience on the road. "It was fun, but sometimes it was boring because of the movies. It was fun during the driving times though," said Heather Myers.

After 18 hours in the car, which also included 12 hours of watching 2 other classmates drive, students waited anxiously for their turn. Included in requirements of completion for this class, students had to learn to parallel park, diagonal park, and also perpendicular park. Occasional movies were watched to review the rules of the road. At the end of the course, the teacher in charge signed the permits, which enabled students to drive with parents or older relatives. "Drivers training is always an exciting time. Students definitely benefited from this experience," said driving instructor Mr. Doug Greenlee.

"Driver's Ed was fun especially because I had an awesome teacher. I'm glad I took driver's ed." Pam Herendeen

WHAT IS That

"I like to decorate my locker because it tells other people about me and it looks creative." Jenny DeBoer

"The reason why I don't decorate my locker is because when I do the janitor just rips it down, so there's no use." Brooke Boege

At the beginning of each year or when they got around to it, some sophomores decorated their lockers with meaningful pictures, notes, and stickers.

Along with their special pictures and memories, girls found many things that they never knew were in there. When asked about this, Jen Winstead said, "While cleaning out my locker I found books that weren't mine, a chapstick, and a brush,"

Sometimes they even found stuff that was definitely not wanted. "Do you remember the time the hall by Ms. Jabaay's room smelled like puke? It was my locker. Well some curdled milk spilled in my locker. Oops," said sophomore Jackie Vankley.

Girls liked to decorate their lockers with pictures to remind them of special occasions, whether it was dances or just pictures of their friends. Lindsay Sopcich said, "I decorate my locker so I can have something to look at between classes. The pictures make me smile."

"I really like when the lockers get decorated. It points out all the people that are on the team, and gets them excited about their game." Sara Magdos

Freshmen Greatest accomplishments

In the freshmen year students have achieved many great accomplishments. While the freshman class was united in school spirit, most of these were by students who worked on an individual basis.

Kim Webber said that one of her greatest accomplishments was that she made the guys' freshman football team and her completion of the entire season. She said, "It was so hard but so much fun!" She was really surprised when no other girls showed up to try out.

One of the most difficult tasks freshmen faced was grades. Johanna Wilkerson commented she was enthused when she had not gotten an "F" for a long time.

"Getting adjusted to everything in high school, making new friends, and doing whatever I can to see my old ones," said Amber Sharp when asked about her greatest accomplishments.

When people asked what spirit week was, some answered that it is the week of the Homecoming game that you could dress up, and show your school spirit. Everyday there was a new dress up day and also a game played during the lunch periods. "Home coming week was hilarious because I got to see everyone in their creative outfits," stated freshman Amber Cooper.

Part of all the excitement was the race to see which class won the spirit stick. Some activities involved were: hallway decorating, lip syncing at the pep session, and decorating a class float. "I believe that the hallway could have been better, if we'd had more materials and also more time. There also wasn't a set theme for our hallway we just made it up as we went along," said Kim Webber, one of the students who had helped.

Courtney Grevensuk said, "Even though most freshman students worked hard to win the spirit stick, we still came in third place overall."

Talking to their friends, Anna Gatlin and Devin Dorn look at everyone's outfits for dressup day!

Far Left: "I really enjoyed all the dressup days and looking at the different outfits, dressing up in baggy clothes was definitely my favorite!", said Amanda Bonilla.

Best Friends Forever!!

Friends can have disagreements, or be upset with each other, but if they are true friends, they always manage to overlook their differences.

Freshmen Amber Sharp and Rachel Ruth have been friends for about four years, since fifth grade. Both enjoyed doing many things together like roller blading, listening to music, such as Nyncnc and 98 Degrees,

Amber said, "Rachel is really a funny person to be around, and I wouldn't change anything about her."

Other Students Amanda Schaper and Stephanie Driscoll have been friends for a year, and they enjoy doing a lot of things together. One of their favorite things to do is going shopping at the mall.

Ever After: A Fairy Tale

Entering the gates of a castle's garden, students danced the night away at Valpo's Expo Center on May 5 for the annual Junior-Senior Prom. The night started at 4:15 with the grand march held in the school's auditorium. It was then followed by pictures taken by Spasoff in the cafeteria. Expo Center opened at 6:00pm, and dinner was served at 7:00pm.

Crowning of the Prom King, Chad Nannenga, and Queen Naura Keiser, and the Prince and Princess Andy Bulla and Jacki Brinker started the dancing. Naura Keiser said, "Thank God I get to return to a fourth Prom at KVHS."

At midnight, the doors to Inman's Bowling Alley opened for Post Prom. Activities included bowling to win a truck, driving go-carts, and playing pool and arcade games. Also, every student who participated in Post Prom was given a gift bag. The gift bags included at least $17.00 worth of gifts, to cover the price of the ticket. Rob Ruth won back the money he spent for his Prom and Post Prom ticket, and Meggin Crim won a T.V. Post Prom ended at 3:00am.

Robert Hudspeth remembered about the whole Prom night, "I had a great time at Prom. It's something I'll never forget."

A New Beginning

No one could have been filled with more excitement, nostalgia, and anticipation on June 3 than the 217 students graduating from KV. As each individual received his or her diploma, cheers and applause roared through the gymnasium. "I'm glad everyone was quiet while they read our names," Rebeckah Valenkamph joked.

Each graduate looked back on high school years with humor and determination for the future as Co-valedictorians Daniel Peo and Naura Keiser, Salutatorian Erin Green, and Senior Class President Matthew Coulter delivered powerful speeches to their peers.

One moment in particular brought the entire audience to their feet: the dedication to the memory of Jill Kaluf, who would have graduated with the senior class.

In his remembrance of years gone by, Matthew Chalik reflected on the emotional experience of high school graduation, saying, "After leaving the place that I called home for four years, it feels really strange to leave my family."

The chosen motto of the Senior Class was, "Maturity doesn't come with age. It comes with the acceptance of responsibility." Forty-six 2001 graduates received an Academic Honors Diploma, 74 received a Core 40 Diploma, and 28 were members of the N. H. S.

A New Beginning...

Many of the graduates revealed that although they had an assortment of sentimental memories regarding their history at KV, much of their emotion was centered on embarking on a new chapter of their lives, whether entering the Army, a trade school, college, or starting a new job immediately after graduation. All of the individuals were happy to become a part of the fast-paced world around them.

Encouraging peers to "make a difference",

Daniel Peo was assisted by Naura Keiser in giving classmates optimistic views on their days ahead, providing both the students and friends in the audience with a challenge to make the most of their futures.

Graduate Robert Hudspeth listens to his principal speak.

Time spent in high school was important in preparation and in sending students in the proper direction. "I can't wait to strike out on my own," Robert Hudspeth admitted, "but I'll always remember KV."

ART

Proving creativity is an expression of life

Among many of the projects students were involved in during art classes, one could find a variety of creative opportunities. From brush strokes of paint to the molding of moistened clay, individuals were allowed the chance to put their heart into each masterpiece.

As Kristen Zeimetz noted, involvement in Ceramics allowed her personal freedom to work each day in a relaxed environment. "I like Mrs. Miller's art classes," she said, "because I don't have to do book work. I can work on projects every day."

Brooke Inman, who explained that she would be further exploring an artistic career after high school, practiced in the fields that she enjoyed by taking art classes. "It prepares me for what I want to do with my life," she said. "I want to be an artist."

Above all, the classes available, ranging from printmaking to advanced drawing to fibers, fostered exploration of life in the process of creation. "I love art," Courtney Cardwell said. "It can lift my spirits when I feel down and can provide another way for personal expression."

Ultimately, utilizing artistic talents unique to each individual made it possible for students to generate new observations about themselves, as well as the beauty of life surrounding them.

BUSINESS

Preparing the students of today for the concepts of tomorrow

Whether they are typing a letter or learning how the judicial system works, students of all business classes will use their newly found skills in the future. Practicing daily to break the habit of watching their hands as they type and learning that it is more important to spell words correctly rather than go 100 m.p.h. and get half the words wrong, students learned new skills every time they logged on.

Providing information daily, Dr. Tucker, Mrs. Zacher, Mrs. Jeffries, and Mrs. Ginzer made sure that each student learned all necessary information for them to reach success. Accounting, Business Law, Keyboarding, Personal Law, Notehand, and Business Foundations were taught to widen their knowledge in the world of business.

"Aside from the obvious things like computer use, accounting, law, etc., I think business has given me a sense of purpose. It probably wouldn't matter whether I was teaching business or another subject--teaching gives me a feeling that I do make a difference in some of our young people's lives. When they come back after Graduation and they tell me that they felt I taught them something about "life" this makes me feel good" said Mrs. Jeffries.

ENGLISH

Expanding the minds of students through literature.

Exploring the worlds of literature, grammar, and poetry, English classes read a large variety of different books. Freshmen read To Kill a Mockingbird, and Romeo and Juliet, Julius Caesar and The Good Earth were just some of the works the sophomore class did.

"My favorite thing we did in English was when we read A Raisin in the Sun. The juniors made projects for the play A Raisin in the Sun in Mrs. Moolenaar's class. They also read Adventures of Huckleberry Finn. Also Mrs. Moolenaar's classes wrote a report using opposing view points.

Seniors had fun doing the Utopia project, which was where they had a chance to design their idea of the perfect society. Animal Farm, Lord of the Flies, and Fahrenheit 451 were the novels they read. The final project they did was an Autobiography to add to their portfolios.

"AP English has helped me a lot. We read so many stories and worked so hard analyzing them that now figuring out the mysteries of the novels is a breeze." said Missy Hall. A few of the works they read were Great Gatsby, Invisible Man, Cat's Cradle, and A Street Car Named Desire, plus many more.

HOME EC

Students learning about the youth and how to care for them

"This class was very exciting. The children taught me a lot about responsibility. Everyone should take this course," said Rachelle Pruitt about her sixth and seventh hour child development class. The class was taught by Mrs. Schroeder. It was a two hour class held at the end of the day where students learned the ins and outs of children.

The class participated in many fun activities with the children. At the beginning of spring they had a special speaker come in to talk to the children about the different seasons of the year. When she was finished each child and student put dirt and a flower in a cup to take home and plant. They also rode ponies in April, and learned about safety.

"It was a lot of hard work to get it started but at the end it all came out for the best. When I leave school I will miss them," said Ana Gonzalez.

In addition to Vocational Early Childcare Education the Home Ec Department provided classes in Housing, Interpersonal Relations, Consumer Econ, Family Wellness, and Life and Careers.

FOREIGN LANGUAGE

A cut above the English world

Learning a new language wasn't always easy, but the teachers tried to make it fun. While teaching the language to the students, the teachers tried to incorporate the countries cultures and lifestyles, to give a glimpse of what it is really like to be there.

During the summer of 2000, some German students, along with Mrs. Masten, Mrs. Bonnema, and Mr.

Nagel, took a trip to Germany and Austria. In Germany, they visited Zugspitze, the highest peak on the German side of the Alps. Traveling to Germany wasn't all that the German classes did. Junior Kevin VanKley said, "German third year was fun because we did skits that were more in depth, and they were fun."

Starting the school year out with a new Spanish teacher was a brilliant idea to some of the students taking Spanish. "Thanks to Mr. Mendoza, I half-way know Spanish now," said Junior Jarrod Bridgeman. Mr. Mendoza not only brought along a great love for teaching, but he brought with him the concept of having a Spanish movie day every Wednesday, to give his students a break from classwork.

German students weren't the only students that got to travel out of the United States in the summer of 2000. Four French students stayed with French families for eight weeks. Along with the possibility of going to France, several French students enjoyed the activities that Mrs. Carey had to offer. She incorporated the French idea of Christmas into her teaching, and the third year students created their very own masks for the annual Mardi Gras celebration.

Playing the board game in class, Nick Allen waits for Mrs. Carey to give him another sentence that he can translate into French.

MATH

Solving problems one day at a time

Whether taking Algebra or AP Calculus, every student was given the opportunity to challenge oneself through the experience of mathematics. As the days turned into weeks, students learned that math classes not only offered a unique perspective on equations and theorems, but also applied those theories to life.

Though the classes were challenging, the teachers' approaches lessened the pressure. Kevin Coffey willingly admitted, "Mr. Hostetler is a great teacher and makes learning a whole lot easier."

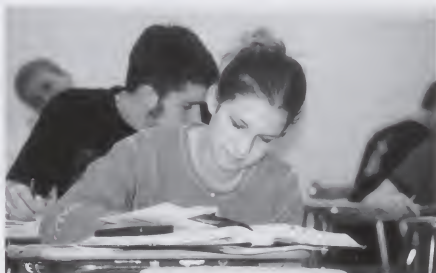

Theresa Wampler and Kelli Peo agreed that a good teacher was important in the understanding of the material. They said "Mrs. Roberts...puts things in English."

Lindsay Peo agreed. "It isn't as hard as I thought it would be," she noted of her Algebra class.

"People usually think that AP Calculus is actually hard, but in reality, it isn't. All you need is to learn it in generic terms," Brad Havens concluded.

Most importantly, students learned to take the difficulties in stride and have fun in their math class. "Trig identities are the best thing since sliced bread," Chad Nannenga joked. "If I could give the world one thing, it would be Pre-Calculus."

Focusing on his lesson, Travis Stansberry completes his homework.

PE/HEALTH

Learning to appreciate the wonder that is the human body

Physical Education, Weights and Health were classes that involved the improvement of the body. P.E. and Health were only given to underclassmen, and Weights was for all grades except ninth grade.

In P.E., several activities were done throughout the two semesters. Some activities included tennis, swimming, basketball, badminton, field hockey, and tumbling. "I like tumbling because Mrs. Hanley makes it interesting even though there are some things I can't do. It's one of my favorite classes," recalled Freshman Tonya Agent.

Weights class was held in the E-Building where several machines helped strengthen the body. Junior Chris Fischer said about his class, "Weights class is more fun than a bucket of butterfly wings."

Health was an educational class, teaching the importance of taking care of the human body, both mentally and physically. Remembering her health class, Sophomore Jill Melton said, "I enjoyed Mr. Greenlee's health class because we watched several informational movies, and he always made me laugh."

SCIENCE

Experimenting with the chemicals of today to create a better tomorrow

Dissecting animals and experimenting with highly dangerous chemicals were just some of the interesting events that happened during a science class. Whether in Physics, Environmental Science, Intro to Biology or AP

Chemistry, students were able to grasp the idea of science and apply it to their studies and their labs.

"It's definitely an interesting class," Brad Havens recalled about Mr.

Price's Physics class. "No matter what we may discuss, we always apply it to physics or science in some way. Even if the topic a person brings up is not in the current chapter we're discussing, Mr. Price will try his best to answer it, in a scientific way, of course."

Students were able to learn about all new kinds of things, from phytoplankton to quantum numbers. There was never a dull moment during a science class. Jacki VanKley remembered a science experiment: "I'm excited because now we get to work with petri dishes during Mr. Maple's class."

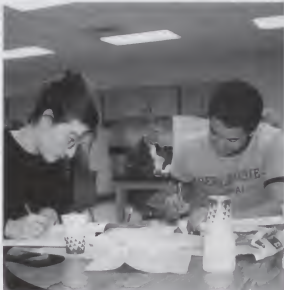

Enjoying another day in class, several AP Physics students gather to play with a bridge testing instrument.

SOCIAL STUDIES

Events of the past enlighten views of the future

Whether they were researching the Vietnam War or studying the effects of the Renaissance on European architecture, students gained a new perspective on the history of international culture.

One of the highlights of being in a social studies class was the focus on humorous events that occurred in the Presidency. "It was really fun being in Mr. Hoover's 7th hour class because he always made fun of Bill Clinton," Gloria Gonzalez admitted jokingly.

Nicole Torbitt agreed that her U.S. History class with Mr. Norwine offered an interesting aspect regarding war times. "I liked watching 'Gone With the Wind,'" she said, recalling one of her class's activities. "It helped me to understand the effect the Civil War had on families."

No matter what one's class was exploring, it was a unique experience to commemorate the ancient culture of the United States and the rest of the world, as well as the struggles that America's ancestors endured. "I love learning about what our country has gone through," Adam Jurs noted.

Overall, students understood why it was important to grow enlightened before making future decisions: mistakes should not be repeatedly made. Stephen Chambers agreed. "We talk about the past," he concluded, "so that we don't repeat it."

Utilizing economic skills, Anthony Fentress and Phillip Winter work on a project.

Building the new and fixing the old

Whether they were building a shed from scrap or molding metal into a useful object, students enrolled in any technology class got what they signed up for, WORK. By taking Construction Processes, Trades students learned to use new tools as well as new ideas.

Providing information on how the world of Technology works, Mr. Hershman, Mr. Hine, Mr. Kaluf, Mr. McKay, Mr. Mengel, and Mr. Mulvihill prepared their classes to move on in the computer and building fields. "CAD is a great class to prepare you for computer classes in college. Since computers are everywhere now, I recommend CAD to all students who think they want a job in Computer Technology," said Junior Drew Scamihorn.

TECHNOLOGY

Designing things today for people to use tomorrow

Whether they were using power tools or building sheds to be sold to consumers, students of technology classes prepared themselves for the future. Making sure that all the students were safe, KV offered face covers, protective gloves, welding overcoats, and headcaps.

Technology classes had their software upgraded to the most recent and current in the U.S. Advanced CADD classes made animation movies. They were burnt on to CD's and put in their personal profile. Examples of animations included a car being hijacked by aliens and being able to walk through a house after it's been built.

CADD class competed in the St. Joseph's College Computer Day. First place went to Brad Havens for designing a forklift that could move objects from one side of the room to the other. In second place was Mark Ceglarek for making a 3D house online. The special thing about his house is that you could walk through it room by room on the computer. Something to Read; See

For the Mirage Club there was a change of face: instead of Mrs. Miller, Ms. Belei became sponsor of the Literary Club. With the help of the 18 members and other students who submitted their drawings, poems, short stories and more, the magazine was finished by May.

Art club featured many activities, including staying Thursdays after school to tie dye or make other projects. The end of the year art show was also a big success. Awards went to Best of Show, Judge's Choice and Principal's Pick: Brooke Inman, Best 3-D: Joel Alexander, Best 2-D: April Lewandowski, Best Photography

Naura Keiser, and Best Ceramic: Amanda Lanari. Vice-President April Lewandowski said "Being able to express yourself artistically without classroom-related pressure is awesome."

MUSIC IN

ONE, TWO, READY, GO!

Members of the marching band heard this command time after time in their quest to perfect their music and marching abilities. "Practices were long, hot, and sticky, but really fun. In fact, I'm looking forward to another year of sweating and work," said Sophomore Michele Lintner.

Strenuous practices paid off with the band having the opportunity to travel to new heights. The band took part in the Purdue Band Day and was able to take their field show entitled, "Broadway Showstopper" to the football field at Rose Hulman University. Freshman Brandon Patton said, "No one can call themselves a musician without ever playing in Marching band."

Jazz band came alive after the marching band season was over. They played three songs at the LaPorte Jazz Band Contest where they received a first place ranking. Only having one practice a week the Jazz Band compiled a list of over 40 songs to entertain the local community at the fourth annual Big Band Bash. "The Big Band Bash was really great. Since this was my last year, it made the experience more special," said Senior Becky Weishaar.

Band was under the direction of Drum Majors Dan Peo and James Hesterman and Director Ken Steidle.

After the half time show, drum major James Hesterman leads the band off the field.

A Noteworthy Band

Fun for the band didn't stop with marching season, they continued on to the concert band season. The concert band played for the community at their annual Christmas concert. This night was made extra special when fake snow fell from the rafter.

"The Christmas concert was spectacular, the music was fun and it was fun to see Mr. Steidle try not to laugh when the snow began falling," said sophomore John Little.

On January 27 the band hosted the ISSMA solo and ensemble contest for the first time.

The band placed first on both performance and sightreading. The year drew to a close with the Spring Concert on May 10 and the awards cookout on May 12.

Nick Underwood said, "Band was a fun and exciting part of my high school career."

There was also a beginning orchestra. These few teenagers came together in only one year to make an orchestra. "We had so many directors it seemed no one liked us, but really they loved us because we're great," said Kristen Roelfs

Choir Voices Within

When one heard a set of melodious voices singing in sync with one another one knew it's one of the four choir classes.

There's a class for almost everyone, Concert Choir, Treble Choir, Men's Choir, or Choraliers.

Music for many was an outlet into creativity, and a way to show emotion. "I loved the fact that I could express myself through music to be completely honest- Choir ruled." said Senior Mic Huppenthal. They also found choir a way to relax and just let loose. They felt it was easy to be themselves in the melodious environment.

Choir classes competed in a variety of contests and concerts. They had a fall, winter/ Christmas, and spring concerts. Concert choir attended the choral fest in Logansport. All the choir classes competed at North Judson, and concert choir won first place. "It was a great honor for our choir class to win first place, I was very excited." said Drew Scamihorn

Performing a duet during the spring concert, Matt Chalik and Travis Ford, sing "Goodnight Sweetheart."

Performing the last song of the night, the Choraliers, sing "Any Dream Will Do."

The Drama fun times

Drama club enjoyed starting the year with the musical, "Your a Good Man Charlie Brown" which received resounding applause for both casts.

"I have always loved the Peanuts comic strips and was thrilled to act them out," said John Little.

Shortly afterwards, the drama play "Arsenic and Old Lace" had an encore. In second semester Mrs. Steiner (drama club director) chose to have a special production of "The Calico Tiger" along with the annual Improvs known as "Actors Anonymous."

"Drama is something I look forward to because it let me go and be totally somebody else, and I can dress in really cool clothes," said

Aaron Nordstrom.

Improv Spring Dance

On March 23, students were given the opportunity to release stress by putting that energy into movement on the dance floor. As music filtered through the cafeteria, freshmen and seniors alike glowed with anticipation of the upcoming vacation.

Others chose ping-pong, twister, basketball, or dodge ball to join with their friends in the athletic hobbies. Many even participated in

Environmental Club

Having almost 100 students in Environmental Club made it a great year for the many activities. Students found time in their busy lives to participate in the Nature Conservancy work days at the Kankakee Sands where members cut down trees, and Adopt-a-Highway April 21 where they cleaned up trash, on Hwy 10. They also sold candy in school. On June 23 they took part in the Relay for Life which found members walking for 24 hours to raise money for cancer research. Money was earned for every lap completed.

The club didn't just work all the time though. Taking a skiing trip in the winter, the members had their fun on the slopes of Michigan for a day. In March, they held the Shamrock Shakedown, which was DJed by Eric VanKley. (picture left) Everyone who entered onto the dance floor had to wear some sort of green. Some Junior guys even added Irish kilts to their wardrobe that night. Environmental Club was sponsored by Ms. Prochno.

FCCLA Club

Family, Career, and Community Leaders of America has built a strong foundation for the role models of future America. Through making fruit baskets for the needy at Christmas time, helping at the Halloween party, and volunteering at the Homecoming Parade, these students proved that they were focused on providing service for others.

They also helped out the special needs students. On their birthdays, members took a little time out of their lives to spend time with them, played games and just talked about whatever the teens wanted to talk about. Enjoying that time very much, FCCLA members got to know the special needs kids a little better.

Members also participated in a Child Care/Discipline meeting during the spring. This helped them to get to know what it really took to take care of a child.

"This was my first year in FCCLA. I had so much fun with the Halloween party and making the float.

It is a great club that more people should get involved in," replied Marisa Scott.

Having fun during club time, Senior Prudence Evans and Junior Loretta Bolde made a banner for a Halloween party.

Foreign Language

World Bingo

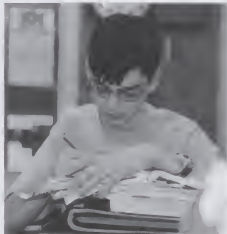

In the Foreign language club students learned about the different cultures, dress, food, and life-styles of the people who speak the languages they are studying.

Different languages included, German, French, and Spanish. The required club dues were $5.00 which helped pay for a field trip. The place that was chosen for the field trip was the Art Institute on April 19.

"At the Christmas meeting, the different languages broke up into groups and sang Christmas carols. My group should have won, because anyone that's heard my singing voice knows it's the best in the world....ha...," said Jacki Brinker.

The club gave a $500.00 scholarship to one person who planned to study languages.

Colorguard Flag Mania

Colorguard was a group of 14 hardworking, energetic, and determined girls.

"Colorguard was the greatest. All the hardwork paid off in the end, and I made so many new friends. They're so many personalities and they're all interesting to get along with. I loved it!" said Brandy Forsythe.

All the girls seemed to agree that the best part of colorguard was the good friends they've acquired. Stacy Hunter said, "Colorguard was an unbelievable experience that I will never forget. The girls have shown me a lot and we have bonded." Coached by Terre Warne, the colorguard team competed in a competition to the song "I disappear" by Metallica.

Spirit Varsity School Spirit

Ever wonder who those loud, energetic, screaming fans at the games were?

They're Kougar Krazies. On any given day one could find a large number of students wearing Kougar Krazies shirts. They participated in the wakiest of dress-up days, supported school functions, and had a ton of fun! "Kougar Krazies was a lot of fun. They also showed a lot of school spirit at the games," said Senior

Mark Koppen.

Competing with Kougar

Krazies to show school spirit was the Varsity club. Varsity club consisted of all athletes who had earned a varsity letter. Highlight of Varsity Club was the annual senior/faculty basketball game on March 20. The game was won by the Students with a score of 121/114.

During a home game, Juniors Megan Parker, and Amanda Hansen, cheered along with the crowd.

Media/Speech/ Computer

Media, Speech, and Computer club focused on different ways of communicating and getting a message across to the people in the community. Computer Club focused on creating web sites for school organizations. Jared Broach said, "It was cool making web pages for the various sport teams!" They also created a DeMotte web page for competition.

Media club helped students find books, put away returned books, and worked the front desk. Erica Marshall said, "Being a media assistant has given me the chance (and privilege) to meet the teachers."

Speech team competed in various categories such as:

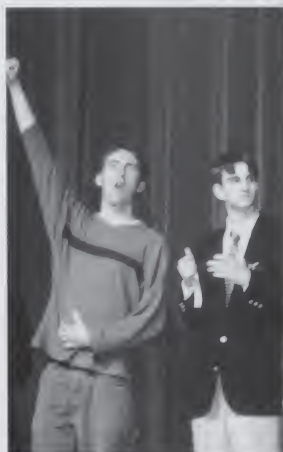

Poetry, Radio, and Speeches. Their season ended in March. John Little said, "Speech team was really fun, once I got away from the fact that I had to wake up really early in the morning. I enjoyed the competition." Speech Team was coached by volunteer Mr.

Justin Steiner who was on the team when he was a Kougaur in 1989.

National Honor Society Community Helpers

Every time a student thinks of scholarship, service, leadership, and character, one organization comes to mind: The National Honors Society. Every member performed service projects throughout the year.

One of the most memorable experiences was the NHS Variety Show conducted to benefit the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation. Over $1000 was raised for the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation. Ms. Oehlman, sponsor and also a known vegetarian, agreed to eat a hamburger on stage. "I don't think Ms. Oehlman will ever look at another piece of meat the same," said

Kimberly Webber jokingly.

In addition to service projects, new students meeting requirements were inducted into the NHS. Daniel Peo, the president, described the focus. "National Honors Society is about having good grades, but it is also about helping people and staying busy.

Finally, April Lewandowski, the secretary, concluded,

"National Honor Society teaches individuals the benefits of helping others while also having a lot of fun at the same time. It really is an honor to be a part of it."

Standing proudly, Jonathan Plant and Dan Peo wait for the ceremony to begin.

"It was an honor to be inducted," Sophomore Amanda DeVries.

"Callas and I got to do our partner dance one last time so the talent show was fun," Nicole Shields

After being called up to the stage, the soon-to-be NHS members light their induction candles.

Newspaper The Spirit

For a small class of ten people, The Spirit staff had large ideas. With Joe Lerner leading the way, the lack of participants wasn't slowing anybody down. The staff chose to print the news on professional paper. Therefore having to up last years price from a dime to a quarter.

Knowing the price might effect sales, the students went out searching for eye-catching stories. According to John Little, "Getting the stories was the easy part. Finding them was a whole other matter."

Newspaper boasted stories such as "Teens select Super Heroes," "Winter creates havoc for student drivers" and "Teens want Dance Team" as well as short articles on exchange students and events going on in school and town. In every issue, Lerner entertained students with his comical cartoons. In January and February the paper was led by Ms. Brown.

Checking for mistakes in his story, Tim Bledsoe transfers his story to the newspaper folder.

Overseeing the back room, Brian Mathews offers help where it is needed.

Pathfinders/ Peer Facilitators

Reaching Out

Speaking to the students, Pastor Michael explains the importance of listening to the advice people give them.

Sharing God with other students was Pathfinders main goal. Meetings provided inspiration from the motivating guest speakers who were invited to share their experiences. The meetings also offered a time that the members could discuss how they could help the community more.

Peer Facilitators was a club based on helping people. Members went through tough training to learn helpful skills. Students had to learn to be patient, good listeners, and a friend to everyone. They were prepared to help any student when asked. "I really enjoyed helping out whenever I

Take Charge Pioneerz

Role models are people that are looked up to and respected. Pioneerz is a group of 45 students from three schools who model their goals by serving others to bring peace where there is discord. Pioneerz members believe that through hope and action they will promote a better world by striving to be better people.

"Pioneerz is great! Without their generous contributions of awareness and understanding we would all be a little less informed," said Chris Fischer.

Working towards making schools safer and drug-free, Pioneerz members promoted the ideal by visiting the elementary schools to speak to students about the consequences of drugs and violence.

Pioneerz attended two retreats where they talked about how to make life better for fellow students. While at the retreat at Camp Buffalo the club members got a chance to learn a little bit more about themselves and their peers.

Decathlon Success is in the Air

Success is a must when you compete at a scholastic, honor, or varsity level. Academic Decathlon Team competed in 10 events; English, Science, Math, Economics, Art, Music, Speech, Interview, Essay, and Super Quiz. They were involved in two local competitions and also competed at state level. The students competed in three levels, divided by GPA. At state Fred Duttlinger took home a bronze medal for Math, and won gold in Speech. In Economics Adam Logan won the gold medal, the silver in English and Literature, and the bronze in Math.

Rachel Witt won the bronze in English and Literature, and the gold in Interview. In Science, Jonathan Plant took home the silver medal in the Honor Division and Josh Oezer won the silver in Varsity Division. Headed by Mr. Price, Mrs. Price, Mrs. Klockow, Mr. Heid, and Mr. Ladd the Decathlon team took sixth in the small school division. Spell bowl headed by Mr. Price and Mrs. Price won conference which led to the academic team being named Conference Champs for the whole year.

After competition, Fred Duttlinger puts on a smile and some funny glasses to express his enthusiasm.

While on the bus Jonathan Plant captures the moment of victory.

"Spellbowl was lots of fun. Learning to spell is something new for a change." William Graham

"It's fun to be part of the academic teams. You get to meet and interact with lots of new people." Kathryn Penninga

"Decathlon was hard, but I think it helped me with studying and test taking immensely." Tony Gatch

"Academic Superbowl is a fun way to review certain skills that I have not used for a while." Brad Havens

Student Council

Student Council, a group of innovative students elected by their peers, strove to make the entire educational experience more fun for everyone. Through organized activities and service projects, this organization defined the word involvement by making sure that each individual had the opportunity to make the most of high school.

Being a very active club, members found themselves making decorations for the Halloween dance. A huge scavenger hunt which earned them a state award raised money and food for the food pantry. They made friends with many students from other schools with the lock-in. They also had a courtyard clean-up day, Read Across America, and held the Oscars in which all the winners received a golden star award.

During the winter, members thought of the idea of a midwinter fest which included Kougur Kourt, the Snowball dance, and the first ever "Spikedown" in which junior guys played against the senior guys in a volleyball game. Honor roll breakfasts, Spring Break dance/activity day, and field day were all part of the Student Council's agenda.

Danielle Brubaker commented on her whole experience, "I had a lot of fun. Student Council lets you get involved with school and you get to know a lot of people better and have tons of fun doing it."

Raising the most money in the state, Student Council members Junior Josh Willis and Senior Michael Frederick participated in a scavenger hunt.

Taking the cart along to all the classes, Juniors Dan Marinez and Savannah Fernandez offered the staff breakfast.

President: Andy Bulla
"Student Council was the best I've ever been in! This is my third year, and I've never had this much fun or got this much accomplished!"

Vice President: Jamie Prochno
"Student Council was really great. We added a lot of new members and tried some new ideas that worked really well."

Secretary: Jennifer Henke
"This part of the evening really brings everyone in Student Council together. It's one of the best parts of State Convention."

Treasurer: Jacki Brinker

Sunshine Club

There were about 260 girls and 2 boys who joined Sunshine. They found ways to make many people's lives a little bit better by doing volunteer work, making stockings for the needy at Christmastime, and making goodies for many gatherings.

At Halloween, they held a children's party at Spencer Park. For their fundraiser, they earned over $6,000. Much of the money was donated to the Riley's Children's Hospital Charity. They also had an Easter Egg hunt at Field of Dreams. Annual Ideal Lady Dinner and Winter Semi-Formal highlighted the year.

SUNSHINE

Dance

Almost 270 girls fixed their hair and made themselves all up for the special night. The theme of the evening was "A Night on the Town." Sarah Sandanato commented, "This Sunshine was probably the best time I had at a dance. It was crazy!"

Many couples went out to dinner before the dancing began. Some of the most visited restaurants were Don Pablo's, Olive Garden, Old Country Buffet, or dinner at a friend's house. The night ended at 11 p.m., but that didn't mean the fun had to stop. Many students spent the rest of the night at someone's home.

Adam Jurs said, "You can't beat hanging out with all your friends and dancing with a lot of pretty girls!"

Tim Kreischer (accompanying Katie Nuss) announced, "When you have the prettiest date; it's easy to have fun."

"This Sunshine was awesome!"

The decorations were great. The whole dance had a very romantic atmosphere," replied Megan Hawkins.

Yearbook We Are Family

"Just Us" jumped up late at night at Herff Jones Summer Camp and grabbed Virginia Clifton, Casey Rice, Tara Gillete, and Gloria Gonzalez as they worked on layouts and themes. Over the next few days they transposed it into the yearbook theme.

It was definitely a year, "Just Us" as the staff battled questions without answers for three months as Mrs. McKinney fought back from a broken hip. "It was a relief to know that Ms. Brown who was a former yearbook sponsor was in the room. Editor Nichole Haberlin did a good job also, on keeping the students on task," said

Mrs. McKinney. Staffers also focused on staff at the National Journalism Convention in Kansas City November 16 to November 19. Yearbook was also selected as one of the top 11 books in the state with a Merit Award from IHSPA.

Boy's Cross Country team had a record season! They won first place in 12/15 meets. After winning first in Sectionals and Regionals, they went on to Semi - state. There the boys placed 6th/20. Receiving Captain awards were Jeff Garvey, Keith Marshall, and Chad Nannenga. Most Valuable Players were Keith Marshall and Jeff Garvey. Rookie of the year was Alex Bishop. Academic Award was given to Chris Fischer. Most Dedicated was Keith Marshall and Most Improved was Tim Gross.

"Cross Country ruled!" stated Senior Chad Nannenga.

Girls Golf took a rebuilding year head on. Ending the season with a record of 12-11, Lady Kougars improved with every game. Placing 12th out of 18 schools at their home Invitational and 17th out of 20 at the Rensselaer Invitational kept them focused.

At Sectional the Lady Kougars came together and placed 7th out of 11 teams to bring their season to a close.

Awards for the season were Co-most valuable golfer Amanda Peregrine and Meghan Estill. Most Consistent golfer was Bailee Serosinski. Most improved Golfer was Nichole Haberin. Rookie of the year was Kelly Foley. Golf Etiquette award went to Jill Jamieson.

Boys Golf team teed off with a record of (3,2). With seniors Alex Graper and Mike Frederich. One funny and embarrassing moment Junior, Kevin Knoerzer had was when he was at a match, and a ball went flying toward his face. He didn't know what way to go right or left. He went right, and he fell down a huge hill.

Awards were presented to: Most consistent Chris Lauraitis, Most Improved Jordan Bonesteel, Golf Etiquette Award Beau Gross, and Most Valuable Golfer: Chris Lauraitis.

Playing with great strength, Eric Van Kley looks for a teammate to pass the ball to. Eric finished the regular season with 79 points. His personal best was 12 points in a close victory over Hebron 38-37.

Dealing with team placement, the Freshman squad fought through inexperience and ended with a record of 7-11. While having a new coach, each athlete had to battle with the rest of the team for starting positions. Jon Misiora, Devin Dom, Trent Roorda, Eric VanKley, and Kris Baccino made up the starting five.

Freshman Awards included: Hustle Award--Kris Baccino, Mental Attitude & Defensive Most Valuable Player--Eric VanKley, Offensive Most Valuable Player--Jordan Bonesteel. Highlights of the season included beating Hebron 38-37 beating Hobart 35-29.

While battling with injury, the JV squad gave their all. Practicing with the Varsity squad daily helped the team become tough and wise. They also played a key role in rooting on the Varsity team and filling in the gaps in the Varsity line when injury was evident. Junior Varsity Awards included: Most Rebounds--Zach Woolever, Top Defender--Jason Spurgeon, Most Improved--Ryan Butler, Most Improved--Calvin Hamstra.

"This year's team has worked very hard and been through a lot. I think everyone had fun and made some good friends."

Senior Liz Wilson

"This year has been the best season I have ever played. We've worked together very well. Even if we don't win every game we still have lots of fun."

Senior Becky Kovach

"Although we were the underdog this year, we over came the odds by winning and having the best season ever."

Winter Spirit

Midwinter Fest had the same spirit as Homecoming, only it was during the winter.

Dress up days were Twin Day, Bad Hair Day, Spring Break Day, Jewelry/Oversized Clothes Day, and Dress Like A Teacher Day.

First annual Spikedown, held on January 25, was a boys volleyball game where the Seniors competed against the Juniors. Seniors won after a hard fought three game match. "I like the competition. It was very nerve-racking throughout the match. The Juniors should have pulled it off, but we're classic choke artists. Look out sophomores, YOU'RE MINE," said Jon Frederich.

"Amanda Battista and I had multitudes of fun announcing for the first annual Spikedown," said Erin Greenlee.

there is not a better man."

After winning the crown, Marshall replied, "I'm the king of the world!"

Third Annual Snowball Dance was on January 26, followed by the crowning of Mr. Kougar, Keith Marshall, the next night at the Boy's Basketball game. Senior Mic Huppenthal said, "It made me happy that Keith won--

Wearing matching New Kids on the Block sweaters, Jacki Brinker and Rudy Mance show their spirit.

Snuggling in a 10X t-shirt, Juniors Jon Frederich, Lynnsi Crim, James Pint, and Matt

Dresher participate in the dress up day Over Sized Clothes day.

Preparing to get a picture taken, several sophomore girls take a break from dancing at Snowball.

Playing in the first annual Spikedown volleyball game, Phil Winter, Alan Burke, Rudy Gonzalez, Brandon Clutts and Adam Jurs carefully watch the volleyball in order to score some points.

Talking about the Snowball dance, Nicki Torbitt said "I think dancing lets people go nuts, while the entire time everyone around is looking as funny as you are." Her date was Travis Thomas "Snowball was exciting and the 4th hour activities were a good break in the middle of the day."

Freshman Devin Dorn

"The volleyball game was a great idea. The girls have powder puff, so it was neat to have an activity for the boys."

Senior Melissa Richardson

"It took a lot of guts for some of the people to wear what they did on the dress up days. It was so fun."

Sophomore Summer Reed

"I had a lot of fun dressing up for all the dress-up days, like when I dressed up as a cheetah for Safari Day."

Junior Josh Willis

Keith Marshall, Mic Huppenthal, Drew Thomas, and Jake Nimetz were the Seniors in the Cougar Court. Junior Dan Marne, sophomore Dave Volomchak, and Freshman Steve Kearney were the other representatives.

On February 14, 2000, KV lost an outstanding student when Jill Kaluf died of cancer. Those who knew her cried. Those who didn't comforted those who did and cried as well. In her honor, a scholarship was started. It was to be accessible to as many seniors as possible, so there was no particular course of study. Deciding a winner was hard, but the first Jill Marie Kaluf Memorial Scholarship went to Jessica Scheidt.

"I once read that a person's life is measured in memories, not years. If that is the case, I believe Jill lived a full life beyond her 17 years," said her mother at the Graduation ceremony.

In honor of Jill and others, teams were begun for Relay for Life. In charge of all the school activities raising money for it were Mrs. Schiedt, Mrs. Prochno and Ms. Groet. Profits from the Oscars, Kiss a Senior Good-bye, and Senior Helpers went to the Relay for life. There was also a car wash and meetings at Pizza Hut. Student Council Team won first for site decoration.

On June 22 and 23, students, teachers, parents and friends walked around the track at Brookside Park. In addition to over $5,000 earned by Ms. Groet's team, teams led by Mrs. Prochno and Mrs. Scheidt also deposited thousands of dollars for research from donations, beanies, daffodils, luminaries, cook books and yard sale signs.

Colophon:

Kougar Pride, volume 31, was produced by the year-book class at Kankakee Valley High School in Wheatfield, IN and printed by Herff Jones Year-books in Mission City, Kansas.

The account was serviced by representative Lisa Keene and in-plant account executive Julie Bogart.

The cover was designed by the editors and incorporates a color design which was lithographed in red and white onto the background.

The book's 200 pages are printed on 80 pound stock. The 2001 volume includes 32 pages in full color.

All body copy was set in helvetica, times, and tahoma 12 point. All type was set by TypeMater, or on disk in position using PageMaster.

The Pride was produced using Microsoft on five IBM compatible computers.

More than 2400 frames of color and 200 frames of black and white film were shot by staff members using one 35 mm Pentax and one 35 mm Canon. Processing and printing were done by Tysen's. Interstate Studios headed by Steve and Deanna Kirk provided portraits. The 500 copies of the book were sold to 500 students at prices ranging from $35-55, depending on purchase date. Any errors are nonintentional.

Pride is a member of NSPA, JEA, Q&S, and IHSPA.

BEING REMEMBERED

CLOSING

Both underclassmen and seniors alike have looked back on their time spent at KV with fondness for individual memories. While it has been a difficult period in each student's life, the rewards have outweighed the nights spent studying, practicing, or working.

Senior Courtney Roorda said, "I will miss so many things...my friends, seniors and underclassmen...but most of all I'll miss all of the wonderful times I've experienced here."

"Leaving KV doesn't sadden me," said Danielle Marlott. "It's just a beginning to a whole new experience...I'm getting excited about all the things to come."

Closing one of the most memorable chapters of life may not be easy, but each student has realized the importance of friendships, as well as accepting the diversity of people who it has been a privilege to know because we are happy being who we are, "just us."

Election 2000

George W. Bush selects Dick Cheney, former Wyoming representative, and former secretary of defense as his vice-presidential running mate on the Republican ticket.

The 2000 presidential election was in many ways decided by not just the voters but the courts. Five weeks after election day, the US Supreme Court blocked Al Gore's request to have disputed Florida ballots recounted. George W. Bush and Dick Cheney won the election after being awarded Florida's 25 electoral votes.

Infringed voting methods in this age of technology threw the presidential election into turmoil. Punch card ballots, and the accompanying "butterfly" system were first created in the 1960s. Disputed ballots had chads, or paper fragments hanging from the punch card that made it difficult for voting machines to read the ballots.

Punching manual recounts are performed by several Florida counties.
